

Remarks

This Amendment is responsive to the Office Action of November 21, 2005.
Reexamination and reconsideration of claims 1 and 3-22 is respectfully requested.

Summary of The Office Action

Claims 1, 3-5 and 16-21 were rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by newly cited Hagiwara et al. (US 6,944,428).

Claims 6-10 were rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hagiwara in view of Kim (US 2001/0031043).

Claims 11-15 and 22 were rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hagiwara in view of newly cited Borella et al. (US 6,697,354).

The Present Amendment

Independent Claims 1, 11, 16 and 21 have been amended to recite various limitations relating to executing a corrective action based on a corrective command received from a mobile device. Support for the amendments appear in at least page 10, paragraph [0035] of the present application. Discussion of the mobile device transmitting a corrective command to respond to an error begins in paragraph [0033]. Thus, no new matter has been added.

Based on the current amendments, the claims patentably distinguish over the references of record. Newly cited Hagiwara discloses sending notifications to mobile devices. However, Hagiwara fails to teach or suggest a printing device configured to receive and respond to corrective commands received from the mobile device. Thus, the 102 and 103 rejections are not supported by Hagiwara and should be withdrawn.

Therefore, the present independent claims 1, 11, 16, and 21 (based on their respective claim language) are not taught or suggested by the references of record, individually or in combination, and are now in condition for allowance.

Accordingly, their respective dependent claims are also now in condition for allowance.

Conclusion

For the reasons set forth above, claims 1 and 3-22 patentably and unobviously distinguish over the references of record and are now in condition for allowance. An early allowance of all claims is earnestly solicited.

Respectfully submitted,

FEB. 21, 2006
